

Anger Rumination, Revengeful Thought and Anger Displacement among Young People

Nurul Fazlana Abd Rahman & Ooi Boon Keat
Social Education and Social Sciences, Management and Science University bkooi@msu.edu.my

---

Abstract

This study was conducted to explore Anger Rumination, Anger Displacement, and Revenge Planning among the young people in accordance with the issues of community violence in the modern society these days. Specifically, this study compared the differences of Anger Rumination, Anger Displacement and Revenge Planning by gender as well as to examine the relationship between the three variables. This study involved 120 respondents who were chosen through convenience samplings among the university students. The instrument used for this research is Scale for Anger Rumination, Anger Displacement and Revenge Planning. Data were analyzed by using coefficient correlation and independent sample T-Test. The research findings pointed that there were significant differences between gender in terms of Anger Rumination. However, there were no gender differences identified in terms of Anger Displacement and Revenge Rumination and Revenge Planning. As for correlation, there was a significant relationship between Anger Rumination and Revenge Planning, but there was no correlation between Anger Rumination and Anger Displacement.

Keywords:

Anger Rumination, Anger Displacement, and Revenge Planning